

The number of college and university students around the world is exploding as developing countries grow their appetite for higher education. TEAM workers serve university students on campuses large and small, whether through Bible education at seminaries or student outreach on secular campuses.

DIPLOMA DEMAND

SOURCE: THE CHRONICLE OF HIGHER EDUCATION DATA AS OF 2009

Note: Enrollment includes students at colleges, universities, and technical and vocational schools beyond the high-school level. Countries vary considerably in how they report those data. Percentages and enrollments are rounded.

ENROLLMENT

The countries represented below are where TEAM currently works. These totals equal total enrollment in postsecondary education regardless of age, expressed as a percentage of the total university-aged population -- typically young adults within five years of graduating secondary school.

